Paul Godfrey fired by Premier Wynne

Ontario Lottery and Gaming Corp. Board of directors resigns en masse

Ontario's gambling expansion, which is crucial to the Liberal government balancing the books without raising taxes, is in disarray after Paul Godfrey's removal as head of the province's gaming agency.

Godfrey was let go as chair of the Ontario Lottery and Gaming Corporation by Premier Kathleen Wynne's government late on Thursday. That triggered the mass resignation of the OLG's "shocked" board of directors.

Godfrey's dismissal capped a dramatic day on the gambling front that also saw Mayor Rob Ford concede that his push for a downtown Toronto casino is dead unless the government promises a $100-million hosting fee (see page 2). Reports said the city would receive just $53.7 million annually for a new casino and existing slots at Woodbine.

A casino in Toronto or a surrounding municipality has been a key part of OLG's push to boost revenues for the province.

"Do I look like a guy who is worried?" Godfrey said as he headed into a 45-minute meeting in Finance Minister Charles Sousa's office.

Speaking to reporters later at a news conference at the Fairmont Royal York, the one-time chair of the old Metro

Toronto municipal government admitted he did not know why he had been let go, but said Wynne indicated to him that she is "uncomfortable with gaming."

"It is quite fair for her to want her own person. Some people you connect with and some people you don't," he said, noting all his actions were approved by the Liberal government, including OLG executive compensation and a special deal that would have given Toronto $100 million for a hosting a casino.

Godfrey, 74, expressed concern that Wynne could be risking more than $1 billion in gambling proceeds by unleashing the upheaval at the agency.

All seven members of the board — including former City of Toronto chief administrative officer Shirley Hoy — resigned en masse upon learning of Godfrey's leaving.

"The government has not advised us of any change in policy or direction," they wrote in a letter to Sousa that stressed they were "shocked" by Godfrey's sacking.

In a statement, Sousa praised Godfrey for leading "a significant turnaround in the operations of the OLG. Under his leadership, OLG reinvented itself and became a modern and more efficient organization."

Peter Wallace, secretary of the cabinet and head of the Ontario public service, will serve as interim chair.

Ford appears to smoke crack in video: Torstar

'False and defamatory.'
Lawyer retained by Ford asks how Torstar News Service reporters could verify what someone is doing by a video

A cellphone video that appears to show Mayor Rob Ford smoking crack cocaine is being shopped around Toronto by a group of Somali men involved in the drug trade.

Two Torstar News Service reporters have viewed the video three times. It appears to show Ford in a room, sitting in a chair, wearing a white shirt, top buttons open, inhaling from what appears to be a glass crack pipe. Ford is incoherent, trading jibes with an off-camera speaker who goads the clearly impaired Mayor by raising topics including Liberal leader Justin Trudeau and the Don Bosco high school football team Ford coaches.

"I'm f—g right wing," Ford mutters at one point. "Everyone expects me to be right-wing, I'm ..." and his voice trails off.

At another point he is heard calling Trudeau a "fag." Later in the 90-second video he is asked about the football team and he appears to say (though he is mumbling, "they are just f—g minorities."

Torstar had no way to verify the video, which appears to clearly show Ford in a well-lit room. What follows is an account based on what both reporters viewed on the video screen. Attempts to reach the mayor, members of his staff to get comment on this story were unsuccessful.

A lawyer retained by Ford, Dennis Morris, said that Thursday's publication by the Gawker website of some details related to the video was "false and defamatory." Morris told Torstar that by viewing a video it is impossible to tell what a person is doing. "How can you indicate what the person is actually doing or smoking," Morris said.

Ford's chief of staff, Mark Twohey, would not listen to questions by Torstar on Thursday night and abruptly hung up when the Torstar called.

The video was taken on a smartphone by a person who said he has supplied crack cocaine to the mayor.

Throughout the video Ford's eyes are half closed. He lolls back in his chair, sometimes waving his arms around erratically. He raises a lighter in his hand at several points and moves it in a circle motion beneath the glass bowl of the pipe, then inhales deeply.

Torstar's reporters were shown the video on the evening of Friday, May 3 in the back of a car parked in an apartment complex at Dixon Road near Kipling Avenue in the north end of Etobicoke. They were allowed to watch and listen to the video three times.

'Deal is dead'

Ford folds on downtown casino

The year-long push for a massive casino resort near Toronto's downtown waterfront is dead. Woodbine Entertainment's high-stakes bid for a full casino at the Rexdale race track is in limbo.

Mayor Rob Ford summoned reporters to his office to say he has cancelled a special council meeting Tuesday he called to debate the downtown casino proposal. He blamed Premier Kathleen Wynne for not providing him with a figure.

"If the province won't agree (to) that $100 million, then folks, the deal is dead. We are not going to carry on the casino debate," the mayor said. It was unclear if Ford had been told, officially or not, of the $53.7 million Toronto was guaranteed for hosting the downtown casino, according to the formula cited by sources.

The mayor said Finance Minister Charles Sousa seemed to understand the city's need for clarity but "I don't think the premier gets it."

Anti-casino councillors vowed to overrule the mayor and get the required 23 signatures to hold the meeting Tuesday and put the casino issue to rest once and for all.

They accused Ford of trying to buy time because he was facing near-certain defeat. Twenty-six councillors — three more than a majority — have said they planned to vote against the downtown casino.

There is considerably more support for a full casino at Woodbine.

'It's like when you come off a ride at the CNE': Hadfield

Weighty issues.

Canadian astronaut once again feeling the effects of gravity, readjusting to life back on Planet Earth

Canadian astronaut Chris Hadfield says his body feels confused and banged up by the effects of gravity after a five-month stay in space.

After floating around weightless for months, suddenly he needs to keep his own head aloft. He feels dizzy. And because there are no callouses on his feet anymore, he says he feels like he's walking on hot coals.

"My neck is sore and my back is sore," Hadfield told a

Chris Hadfield

MIKHAIL METZEL/POOL/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

news conference from Houston on Thursday. "It feels like I played a hard game of rugby yesterday or played full-contact hockey yesterday and I haven't played in a while."

Hadfield returned to Earth on Monday night after his stay aboard the International Space Station — a trip that included a period as commander of the orbiting station.

The 53-year-old astronaut said his body is confused at the moment.

"My body was quite happy living in space without gravity," he said. "(It's) a very empowering environment where you can touch the wall and do somersaults, where you can move a refrigerator around with your fingertips and never worry about which way was up."

"Well, that all changed when our Soyuz slammed back into the Earth. And my body is catching up with the change. And so the symptoms are dizziness. It's like when you come off a ride at the CNE or something."

ACCESSIBLE TRANSIT IS A LIFELINE FOR MANY

ANDY BYFORD

COMMISSION

Last week, the TTC held its annual public forum on accessible transit.

This was the sixth such event, designed to give Wheel-Trans and other TTC customers the opportunity to let us know how we're doing in making the TTC more accessible.

About 250 people attended, along with representatives from ACAT – the Advisory Committee on Accessible Transit.

After introductory remarks, which highlighted progress made since the forum last year, the floor was opened up to allow us to hear directly from customers. Much useful feedback was given, all of which will be collated and responded to via our website.

The TTC is committed to providing fully accessible services by 2025, including all subway stations and vehicles. A lot has been achieved, including making our bus fleet 100-per-cent accessible on all routes, installation of elevators in about half of our subway stations, and the rollout of automated audible and visual stop announcements across the network. Next year is significant in that Toronto will have its first-ever low-floor, accessible streetcar enter service.

It was encouraging to hear customers compliment Wheel-Trans on the service that it now provides 24 hours a day. But in listening to the comments from customers, it is clear that we still need to improve.

Using the feedback from the session, an action plan will be drawn up and published, which responds to both the criticisms and suggestions that we heard.

As I stated in my opening remarks that evening, we will not have met our vision of a transit system that makes Toronto proud until it applies to all aspects of our service. Accessible transit, after all, can be a lifeline for so many.

EMPLOYEE PROFILE

Name: Joel Pinski,

The thing I enjoy the most about working for the TTC is dealing with the public, and the opportunities to go into schools to educate kids on my job. When I am operating a bus, I like to show my sense of humour and personality. For instance, I become creative over the PA system, to move the masses to the back during the morning or afternoon rush hours. Most people leave with a smile on their face and say, "Thanks for making my day!"

Duffy resigns from Conservative caucus

Unanswered questions. Senator stepping aside amidst spending scandal

Senator Mike Duffy resigned from the Conservative caucus to sit as an independent Thursday night amid a controversy over his housing claims, leaving a host of questions about the nature of his expenses and why the prime minister backed him for so long.

The employment status of Stephen Harper's chief of staff, Nigel Wright, remains unchanged — despite his secret gift to Duffy to help repay the improper expenses.

Only a week ago, the Conservative government was hailing Duffy's leadership for repaying the funds the Senate said he owed. Senate Leader

Senator Mike Duffy. SEAN KILPATRICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Majory LeBreton declared the matter closed.

But then it came to light that Wright had cut Duffy a personal cheque to cover the repayment in March. Harper's office characterized it as a personal gift, but this week Duffy called it a loan.

The Canadian Press reported Thursday that Duffy campaigned for the Conservatives during the April 2011 election while claiming to be on Senate business.

"Mr. Duffy's claim that he had secured a bank loan came as a complete surprise. All of the revelations relating to the expenses during the campaign are new," a government official said on condition of anonymity.

Greenhouse gas. Technology is key to reducing emissions, Harper says

Technological change will prove to be the key to cutting greenhouse-gas emissions, Prime Minister Stephen Harper told a blue-chip audience on Thursday.

Simply imposing emissions targets or trying to cap economic growth to reduce emissions isn't going to work, Harper said during a question-and-answer session at the Council on Foreign Relations in New York City.

"I am convinced that, over time, we are not going to effectively tackle emissions unless we develop the lower-emissions technology in energy and other sectors," he said.

"That is the thing that will allow us to square economic growth with emissions reduction and environmental protection. I'm convinced if we cannot square those, we are not going to make progress globally."

Any realistic international agreement to limit emissions has to cover everyone, not just the developed world, he added.

"We need a mandatory, international protocol that includes all significant emitters, and if we do not get that we will not be able to control global emissions."

Over the course of the hour-long session, a relaxed-looking Harper discussed climate change, the Keystone XL pipeline and Alberta's oil sands, as well as medicare, border issues, the Middle East and the perils that bedevil the global economy.

He waved off the concerns of environmental critics as he pitched the TransCanada pipeline project as a good thing for the United States that would, if approved, create thousands of jobs and reduce American reliance on offshore oil.

Blast from the past: Beaver Canoe paddles back to life

Canadiana comeback.

Target to carry collection from homegrown '80s brand that will include apparel, home decor

Target is bringing an added dose of Canadiana to its stores north of the border through a new partnership with Beaver Canoe.

The U.S.-based retailer has announced an exclusive collaboration with the Beaver Canoe brand, which is part of Roots Canada.

In what is billed as a first for the brand, the Beaver Canoe for Target collection will feature home decor products. The home collection will include more than 65 pieces, like furniture, pillows, lighting, frames, vases and candles.

The Beaver Canoe collaboration with Target will also encompass a clothing collection for the retailer, which will include hoodies, sweatshirts, T-shirts, track pants and long-sleeve tops for everyone from toddlers to adults, in addition to outerwear and accessory offerings for men and women.

Prices for items in both the home and apparel collections will range from about $8 to $100.

The Beaver Canoe apparel line is slated to arrive in Canadian Target stores on Sept. 8, with the home collection set to hit stores on Sept. 15. The partnership marks the second exclusive collaboration between Roots and Target. The retailer carries the Roots Outfitters collection, including fashions for women, men, boys, girls and toddlers.

Step away from the sirloin. Rising food prices lead to more comparison shopping

A recent survey of Canadian adult consumers found a large majority of them believe the price of the food they buy has gone up in the past year and more than half said they are doing more comparison shopping than before.

The Ipsos Reid study done for the Royal Bank suggests the average monthly food bill, not including eating out, for the 3,024 people it surveyed last month was $411 per household.

Eighty-four per cent of respondents said their food prices have increased over the past year. The survey, conducted April 2 to 15, also found 57 per cent of respondents said they comparison shop more than before and 41 per cent said they were more budget conscious or less likely to make impulsive purchases.

"In light of concerns over escalating food prices, more Canadians are looking for cost-saving strategies they can use on their next trip to the grocery store," said Jason Round, head of the bank's financial planning unit. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Riding the rails across Canada to promote transit infrastructure

The birth of Canada's national railway has been widely viewed and written about as the physical link that connected and, ultimately, created our country.

More than 128 years later, London's Kadie Ward is out to show the government that there's more work to be done.

Ward, along with a multimedia crew, will board a Via Rail train Tuesday in Halifax and ride the rails all the way to Vancouver, where she'll attend the Federation of Canadian Municipalities' annual conference. Along the way, she'll blog about how cities on the route are

Air travel. Ditch the baggage and board early on American

If you're travelling light, you can board earlier on American Airlines. The airline said Thursday that people carrying just a personal item that fits under the seat — no rolling suitcases — will be allowed to board before most other passengers.

American said that the change will speed up the boarding process and allow flights to take off sooner, helping the airline improve its on-time performance.

Wireless deal

Telus plan to buy Mobilicity could up prices, warns advocacy group

Telus announced a plan Thursday to buy struggling wireless carrier Mobilicity for $380 million, a deal observers say will prompt higher prices for monthly cellphone service if it is allowed.

"Maybe you want to talk to your provider and renegotiate your deal now," said John Lawford, executive director of the Public Interest Advocacy Centre.

The company, which does not require long-term contracts, brought unlimited talk-and-text plans to the marketplace, said Lawford.

"In a lot of places where Mobilicity offers service you're going back to just three operators. You can guess who they are — Bell, Telus and Rogers. Prices will just go up."

1 Diplomacy. Osaka Mayor Toru Hashimoto defended forced prostitution of "comfort women" in the Second World War, saying that they were necessary in providing much needed "rest" to soldiers. Hashimoto, previously the youngest governor in Japanese history, stated last year that Japan needed "a dictatorship." He has what I call "political Tourette's."

2 Migratory patterns. The U.S. Senate is considering a bill allowing Canadian "snowbirds" to stay down south for longer. Currently, Canadian citizens can spend up to six months in America without losing their health coverage. The new bill would grant an extension of 60 additional days. If it passes, the "early bird" team at the Cheesecake Factory will also throw in a plastic couch cover with a cable subscription for 24-hour reruns of Golden Girls and Matlock.

He also repaid $1,050 for expenses declared while in Florida for non-Senate business. In unrelated news, a man arrested for grand theft auto told authorities, "Was that not my mother's car? My bad. Take it back."

5 Space Oddity. They're calling astronaut Chris Hadfield a rock star: First Canadian to command the International Space Station, almost a million Twitter followers and YouTube hits, and a Bowie cover music video. After being up for so long, he finally came back to Earth, acclimating himself at a rehabilitation centre. He's not just a rock star, he's Steven Tyler.

7 Anti-social media. Disney actress Ashley Tisdale has been shaken by an obsessed fan who sent her more than 18,000 tweets before showing up at her home. #### Barbie house opens with controversy

The Barbie Dreamhouse Experience, near Berlin's trendy Alexanderplatz shopping district, is a life-sized house full of Barbie fashion, furniture and accessories. It's open to the public until Aug. 25 before it moves on to other cities in Europe.

The attraction is not without criticism. A topless woman from female rights group Femen targeted the opening of the Dreamhouse Thursday, holding a burning doll on a crucifix and dozens of other protesters flooded the premises with signs, shouting.

RE: Mayor Defends Use Of Wartime Prostitution, published May 15

May I suggest a proper headline for your article on a Japanese mayor justifying sexual slavery during the Second World War?

"Mayor defends use of wartime rape."

In your article you quote the mayor as saying kidnapping, forcible confinement, rape, torture, and beatings were not sex trade, but in Japan were necessary to "maintain discipline."

Let us be clear: torture and sexual abuse are never necessary, and can never be justified as a means of maintaining discipline. What happened was rape.

The use of so called "comfort women" was neither discipline nor sex trade. It was abuse and torture. Tens of thousands of young women were kidnapped as sex slaves by the Japanese army during the Second World War. Many women were teenagers. Many died. Japan has never formally apologized nor compensated for this war crime. It was a war crime. It was torture. It was rape.

The women who were abused deserve nothing less than a full apology. So does the world.

Stars of outer space

Film's final frontier.

With Star Trek the must-see movie this weekend, the Reel Guys look back at their favourite flicks from another world

Richard: Mark, Into Darkness is the best pure popcorn flick of the year so far. It is state of the art in every way, particularly when it comes to the effects. As great as it looks, I'm a sucker for '50s B-movie effects like the 40-foot tall martian in the low budget 1959 space opera The Angry Red Planet. The campy creature was actually a 15-inch tall puppet made from elements of a rat, bat, spider, and crab and was later featured on the cover of the Misfits' album, Walk Among Us. What are some of your favourites?

Mark: Interesting you mentioned Angry Red Planet. I saw it when I was 10 at a downtown matinee and still shudder at the scene where the astronaut was turned into lime Jell-O. But when I was 16, Barbarella became my favourite movie set in outer space — that is, Jane Fonda's cleavage. But if it's cheese you're looking for, I want to nominate Mars Needs Women, a made for TV movie from 1967. Basically a beach party flick set in outer space featuring amazons, strippers and secretaries, it's best appreciated late at night with the kind of wine that comes in a box.

RC: Box wine has enhanced many a bad movie for me. No wine needed for Moon, a unique and fascinating sci fi film directed by David Bowie's son, Duncan Jones. Set on a space station, it's the story of a worker, played by Sam Rockwell, who discovers he may not be alone on his mission. To say anymore would ruin a really well constructed movie that cares more about ideas than special effects.

MB: Moon is a classy puzzle movie that owes a lot to Kubrick's 2001: A Space Odyssey, the classiest space movie ever, maybe even too classy for its own good. Is it heretical to say that it bored me a bit? Alien sure didn't bore me. And its sequels, even the weak ones, kept me excited. But let's remember that not all space movies are necessarily monster movies. I'm thinking of The Right Stuff and Apollo 13, two films that rightly celebrate the courage and tenacity of the early astronauts. Both very exciting movies, I think.

RC: I agree, and let's not forget In the Shadow of the Moon, a beautifully shot documentary that features real life astronauts like Buzz Aldrin and Neil Armstrong.

MB: On a lighter note, let's not forget Galaxy Quest, the funniest movie to take place in outer space.

Drama

Mud

Director. Jeff Nichols

Stars. Matthew McConaughey, Reese Witherspoon

This slow moving Mississippi river-set movie features infidelity, murder and theft, but at its heart it isn't really about any of those things. Not really. Instead it's a story about the things we do for love. When two 14-year-old boys discover a mysterious stranger named Mud (Matthew McConaughey) living on a remote island, they get drawn into a possibly illegal scheme to reunite the loner with his true love Juniper (Reese Witherspoon). Methodical and moody, the film takes its time telling the story, but the performances are stellar and quietly effective.

The Reluctant Fundamentalist

Director. Mira Nair

Stars. Riz Ahmed, Liev Schreiber, Kate Hudson

When Changez moves to the U.S. from Pakistan, he's got everything going for him: an Ivy League education, a beautiful girlfriend, a top job on Wall Street. And then 9/11 happens, and the Manhattan prince becomes a pariah virtually overnight. Mira Nair's The Reluctant Fundamentalist explores a character's reflections on a life thwarted by terrorism, and presents a rare, non-American perspective on the political and social fall-out from 9/11.

The Angels' Share

Director. Ken Loach

Stars. Paul Brannigan, John Henshaw, Gary Maitland

After narrowly escaping jail, Scottish hell-raiser Robbie (Paul Brannigan) tries to create an honest life for his new family. Filmed and set in Glasgow, the first hour has a natural vibe; a rawness and realism that almost feel like a documentary, but it switches in the latter half to a grimly funny caper film. It's an unlikely feel-good movie with good performances and loads of lyrical Scottish accents. The standout here is Brannigan, who is so charismatic in his debut performance it's hard to believe he's never acted before stepping in front of Ken Loach's camera.

Seventies flashback! Pop culture personalities of the Warhol era are alive and well and hanging out at Bergdorf Goodman, Manhattan's tony department store at the foot of Central Park, bedecked in $6,000 shoes while sipping champagne in the revered salon. The Iceman

Director. Ariel Vroman

Stars. Michael Shannon,
Winona Ryder

Richard Kuklinski was a particularly puzzling personality, so it must have been tricky for director Ariel Vroman to craft much more than a fascinating surface-level biopic on The Iceman. The true tale of a 1960's family man-turned-cold-killing hitman for the mob, this drama may not uncover many psychological answers to Kuklinski's actions, but with mesmerizing performances led by Michael Shannon (Boardwalk Empire), The Iceman will still leave most audiences frozen in their seats. STEVE GOW

Unlike most of his previous work, this film's strength lies in its realism. Through gossip, pranks and petty arguments — all made authentic by Gondry's cast of teens from The Bronx — the film perfectly captures teen life. REGAN REID

Gossip Girl pretty boy Penn Badgley is the anchor for the biopic Greetings From Tim Buckley, playing tragic singer Jeff Buckley who, in the film's main narrative, is preparing for a tribute concert for his late father. Tim Buckley was one of the most celebrated singers of his generation, though he died of an overdose at 28. His own story is charted in a parallel story and though both tales don't quite connect, Badgley's performance and the music of both men bring it to dream-like life. CHRIS ALEXANDER

Documentary

Fight Like Soldiers, Die Like Children

Director. Patrick Reed

Nearly 20 years after witnessing the Rwandan genocide, General Roméo Dallaire is fighting a desperate — and some say impossible — war against the use of child soldiers. The documentary follows Dallaire through Rwanda and the DR Congo as he works to free child soldiers and promote peace. Though very interesting, the doc doesn't delve deeply enough into any of its subjects (Dallaire, the experiences of child soldiers, efforts to combat their use, etc.). A tighter focus would make the film more powerful. REGAN REID

This Hangover is all Alan

Zach Galifianakis. The weirdest part of the trio becomes the focal point of this final instalment

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

What's one more trip to Las Vegas from friends? The Hangover Part III finds Phil (Bradley Cooper), Stu (Ed Helms) and loose cannon Alan (Zach Galifianakis) teaming up for one last road trip gone wrong. Only this time, Galifianakis' Alan goes from comic relief to main character, which is a particularly risky proposition — at least according to Galifianakis.

Alan really takes centre stage in this instalment. Yeah, as disheartening as that is (laughs). No, I mean we'll see if the audience thinks that an Alan storyline is sustainable for a movie — I mean a lot of Alan. There's a lot of Alan in this. I was excited because we got to explore Alan a little bit rather than have him be just a one-dimensional character that's kind of weird and saying random things. In this third instalment I think there's a little bit more of an emotional arc with him, which I appreciate. It's more of a story than just jokes with Alan this time. I don't know at the end of this

Now you can recycle more plastic stuff — like fruit and vegetable containers, clear takeout containers, molded bakery trays, plastic egg cartons, disposable plastic plates and cups, empty CD cases and more. So listen to Chuck and Vince and fill up your Blue Bin, not the landfill. Need a bigger Blue Bin? Call 311 to upsize it for free.

where Alan goes. I think it's kind of open-ended, but at least he seems like he's on the right path.

I was going to ask where you see him five years from now.

Running the Tea Party. No, that's just a good-natured joke. I don't know where Alan would be. Hopefully he's married, and he probably drives by Phil's house a lot and honks to see if Phil will come out, and then Phil maybe looks through his blinds to see who it is, if it's Alan outside. Every other Thursday Phil will come out and say hi to him.

They've been billing this as the final instalment. Why is the trilogy the standard for film series?

Well, part of it is overstaying your welcome, I think. After the first one I was fine with just leaving well enough alone, to be honest. But then it was so fun to do the movies, and I thought there was more to explore, ultimately. But after the third one ... it's part of, as I said, not overstaying your welcome, and just the timing of it seems right to not do anything else with this. I've never really thought about the trilogy thing. The good thing about the third one is it allows kind of a nice goodbye. With the second one there's no closure, really. There was an event, they'll go on with their lives. This one seems like there's a little bit of closure.

The Hangover films have been phenomenally successful. If this one follows suit, do you think you'll have to try to talk them out of making a fourth one?

Well, I think it's bad to do movies because of economic gain. As an entertainer or an actor, you want to try to do other things and challenge yourself to try other roles, and it's time to move on. I think everybody feels that, the director and the other actors — and not out of anything but love. There won't be a fourth.

Speaking of doing new things, you're currently filming Birdman, a comedy from Alejandro Gonzalez Iñárritu, who's better known for heavier films.

It's a comedy, and Alejandro hasn't made one. He's a great filmmaker, obviously. The little I can tell you about (it)is you kind of know you're in the hands of a really experienced technician and great filmmaker. It's been a really great work experience for me. I'm there with really serious actors who've done really accomplished work. I think I'm the only one in the cast who's never won a trophy ...

Life in the fast lane

Fast & Furious 6. In a high action movie full of muscles and mayhem, actress taps into her maternal side

Metro World News

There are very few movies where you can use phrases like "oiled bodies" and "torqued to the max" and accurately describe both men and machines — but Fast & Furious 6 is one of them. It's the series' latest gear-head film where muscle Dominic Toretto (Vin Diesel) and the rest of his car-thievin' gang smash bang and wallop their way through yet another international criminal threat. The sixth instalment brings its hefty carbon footprint to London to stop the evil Brit, Owen Shaw (Luke Evans), with all the death-defying stunts, explosions and sick-making driving we've come to expect from the franchise. Amongst all of the testosterone-fuelled fist pumping and steely looks, there's the relative calm of Jordana Brewster, who plays Mia Toretto, Vin Diesel's on-screen sister and linchpin of the "criminal family." We chat to Jordana about real-life speeding, babies and why guys who drive souped-up cars are "douche bags."

It's an intense, high-octane movie that frankly gave me heart palpitations. What gets your heart racing?
Ah, you know, I'm really claustrophobic, so that'll get my heart racing.

Any bad experiences?
I think it's something that comes with age, and I'm only 33, but it happened in my late 20s: I got in a plane and it felt really enclosed and I started freaking out and I just couldn't breathe.

You play quite a maternal role in the latest Fast and Furious, has the film made you broody at all?
Has it made me broody? Meaning wanting a baby? Yeah. I definitely want kids really soon. I would like two or three, so I better get started and my husband, who is eleven years older than me, is game whenever I'm game.

The girls do as much fight-

Show offs

What's with guys and cars?

Guys that drive souped-up, flashy cars look a bit ridiculous. Do you think that they're a bit of a penis extension?

I think they can be for some men ... and you usually know when you see it. The car that's the loudest and the flashiest will have a douche bag behind the wheel.

ing as the guys, are you a little envious that you didn't get a few more fight scenes?

A little bit. That was a sacrifice ... I love what the baby brings into the mix. I love that it shows (Diesel's character) Dom's very sweet vulnerable side. The fact that he has a new nephew shows the new dynamic in Mia and Brian's relationship, but I didn't get to kick ass like Gal (Gadot), Michelle (Rodriguez), and Gina (Carano).

I've been in quite embarrassingly pathetic scuffles. Have you ever been in a proper fight?

A girl slapped me once. I went to an all girls' school in New York and a girl slapped me in the dark room — I was developing pictures — and she slapped me and I slapped her back. It was a bitch slapping.

Is that the worst girly battle you've been in?

Actually no, my sister and I would get in really bad fights when we were younger and I would threaten to bite her all the time. So I would bare my teeth and that was my threat... Yeah, we were just really aggressive.

Who's got the shortest fuse on set?

I'm really impatient. I like getting stuff done, so I'd say my fuse is pretty short. I just get pissy. You don't want to see it (laughs).

I'll try not to piss you off.
Yah (laughs).

The girls in the movie are quite adept at manipulating the male characters. When have you used your feminine charms to get your own way?

I only pull it out for special occasions (laughs). Um, I would say if I'm trying to get out of a ticket, or if I'm trying to get on a plane at very short notice. I flirt and you know compliments helps a lot. I find that disarms people.

Catch Jordana Brewster in Fast & Furious 6 in theatres next Friday. HANDOUT

No, Slim Shady hasn't been stabbed, but enjoy your spam!

Eminem wants to make it clear that reports of him being stabbed have been greatly exaggerated. His rep is dismissing a Facebook post purporting to show the singer "left nearly dead after being stabbed four times in NYC," according to E! News.

"Not true," the rep says. "He remains un-stabbed." And it turns out this wasn't just another false Internet rumour about a celebrity dying or getting injured. The post also subjected those foolish enough to click on it to an avalanche of spam.

Is Selena Gomez single or not?

Selena Gomez may have recently declared herself single in a radio interview, but the amount of time she's spending around Justin Bieber's house seems to suggest otherwise. Gomez was spotted leaving her on-again, off-again boyfriend's home late Tuesday morning, or so says an E! News report. According to an eyewitness, Gomez looked "happy" and "spent the rest of the day at home." Bieber, for his part, was in the recording studio most of the day.

Talk about not being in the loop. John Voight says he found out about daughter Angelina Jolie's voluntary double mastectomy the same way everyone else did — reading her New York Times essay about it — despite having seen her just days before the news broke, according to the NY Daily News. "I saw her two days ago with my son Jamie (Haven). We all got together for his birthday, with her and Brad (Pitt). But I didn't know. It wasn't obvious at

Celeb grapes

Peter Rockwell

I've met enough wine-makers who think they're rock stars, so I guess it's only fair that a rock star can think himself a winemaker. Dave Matthews, the man behind the newly released The Dreaming Tree wines, is only the latest celeb to grape it up.

The roster of famous names making wine reads like an awards show guest list: Greg Norman, Mike Weir, Dan Aykroyd, Francis Ford Coppola, Sting, Wayne Gretzky, Madonna, and even Brangelina.

While I'd never suggest the others are dialing it in, Matthews has been hands on in choosing his Californian wine partners, and the resulting juice (if you'll forgive the obvious pun) sings in the glass.

The DT 2011 Chardonnay ($16.95 - $19.99) is a well-rounded, buttery chard with woody spice that just may have all you "anything but chardonnay" zealots burning your membership cards. Its red sister, The DT 2010 Crush ($16.95 - $19.99), is a mega, merlot-led blend of California North Coast fruit with a rolling flavour of plums, raspberry jam and brown sugar that will duet well with a red meat-themed, long weekend barbecue.

Who's next? My bet is on Kardashian Vineyards. PRICES REFLECT RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

A fine burger balance

Cheeseburgers with Mango-Chile Salsa.

Fire up the barbecue this weekend and try a unique combination

This tasty cheeseburger recipe that includes the nutrient-rich, sweet mango mixed into a salsa with fiery chiles to add a south Asian flavour that will delight your taste buds.

1. Combine patty ingredients, keeping mix crumbly rather than compressed. With wet hands, gently form four loosely packed patties of equal size, each about 3/4 inch thick. Don't compact meat too much or the patties will be tough. Using your thumb or the back of a spoon, make a shallow indentation about 1 inch wide in the centre of each patty. This will help the patties cook evenly and prevent them from puffing on the grill.

Ingredients

Patties

- 1 1/2 lbs ground chuck (80% lean)
- 1/2 tsp garlic powder
- 1/2 tsp kosher salt
- 1/2 tsp ground black pepper

Salsa

- 1 large mango, cut into 1/2-inch dice (about 1 cup)
- 2 tbsp roughly chopped fresh cilantro leaves
- 1 tbsp fresh lime juice
- 1 medium serrano chile pepper, seeded and minced
- 1/4 tsp kosher salt

Burgers

- 4 thin slices pepper jack cheese
- 4 hamburger buns, split
- Dijon mustard

This recipe serves four. NEWS CANADA

2. In a non-reactive bowl combine the salsa ingredients. Toss gently and then refrigerate for at least 30 minutes or up to 1 hour. (After an hour, the fruit starts to become mushy.)

3. Prepare the grill for direct cooking over medium-high heat (400 to 500 F).

4. Grill the patties over direct medium-high heat, with the lid closed, until cooked to medium doneness, 8 to 10 minutes, turning once when the patties release easily from the grate without sticking. During the last minute of grilling time, place a slice of cheese on each patty to melt, and toast the buns, cut side down, over direct heat.

5. Spread the bottom half of each bun with Dijon mustard, and serve the patties warm on the buns topped with mango salsa.

Just Opened: Woods Restaurant

Chef Bruce Woods' departure from Modus a few months ago left many people wondering what his next step would be. The answer came with this week's opening of Woods Restaurant (45 Colborne St.). Taking over the space left in Colborne Lane's wake, Woods Restaurant features a menu of sustainable and local Canadian fare.

Just Opened: Marky and Sparky's Smokehouse

The smokehouse trend keeps growing in the city with the recent opening of Marky and Sparky's Smokehouse at 520 Annette St. The new spot is also part of the ever-expanding offerings in the Junction, and is dedicated to all things BBQ — ribs, brisket, pulled pork, and the delicious and hunger-inducing list goes on.

Just Opened: Rooster Coffee House's Second Location

Fans of the original Rooster Coffee House — and there are many — now have a second location to get their java fix. Found at 335 King St. E., the new location serves up grub from Cinq Catering alongside Rooster Coffee House's famed coffees, espressos and the like. Judging from the lines on opening day, this rooster's cockadoodle-doing it right.

McMichael Moonlight Gala

On June 8 at 10365 Islington Ave. in Kleinburg, enjoy an evening under the stars in support of the McMichael Canadian Art Collection. The glamorous affair will feature jazz chanteuse Holly Cole, curated culinary delights by Chef Jamie Kennedy, wine and scotch tastings by Via Allegro Ristorante, and a spectacular array of silent auction items.

Art of the Cocktail

On May 23 at Malaparte (330 King St. W.), discover the return of the artful drink at Toronto Life's Love Your City: Art of the Cocktail. Some of the city's most renowned mixologists will be on hand to mix up the drinks, which will be paired alongside four courses of hors d'oeuvres. Presented by Diageo Reserve, this is one cocktail event you certainly don't want to miss.

Opera Atelier Versailles Gala

On May 29 at the Ritz-Carlton (181 Wellington St. W.), transport yourself through whimsy and wonder at Opera Atelier's Versailles Gala. One of the city's most sophisticated events, Versailles Gala will be an opulent evening of courtly pleasures, during which guests can indulge and be treated like royalty. Emceed by Jeanne Beker, this top tier event supports the revitalization of period opera and ballet.

'Time will heal this, but we can never forget it'

Fallen Leafs. Buds still feel pain from epic third-period collapse against Bruins

Three days after the Leafs' historic playoff collapse in Boston, the wound was still raw.

Did it hurt less this morning when you woke up, goalie James Reimer was asked at the Leafs' wrap-up session Thursday.

"Not really," he answered. "Sometimes you go through the day and you forget about it," he added. "You're doing something, you're talking about something with some guy. But then all of a sudden, you remember it, and you just get that sickening feeling in your stomach. And it just doesn't go away."

Centre Nazem Kadri was also having a tough time forgetting Toronto fumbling away a 4-1 third-period lead and then losing 5-4 in overtime in Game 7 Monday.

Boston's comeback, which included two goals with goalie Tuukka Rask pulled for an extra attacker, marked the first time in NHL history that a team had won a Game 7 after trailing by three goals in the third period.

"I had some nightmares the first couple of nights," Kadri said. "It wasn't fun thinking back to that game."

Added forward James van Riemsdyk: "It's one of those losses that kind of just eats away at your soul."

Flushing away the negatives was one of coach Randy Carlyle's mantras this season. But even he acknowledged this was one memory that was going to stick.

"Time will heal this, but we can never forget it" was Carlyle's message to his players.

"How can you ignore it? You can't," he told reporters.

"It's reality."

Thursday's wrap-up media session was the first time Carlyle and the players had talked since the TD Garden debacle, which was witnessed by more than 5.1 million Canadian TV viewers.

A cloud of frustration clearly still lingers within the franchise, which had not

Roster decisions

Bozak due for salary raise this summer

Tyler Bozak is getting a haircut. Quite literally. And — if he wants to remain a Maple Leaf — figuratively.

The long hair Bozak was growing all season was the result of a bet with a college friend: Who can go longest without a cut?

"Summer is here," said Bozak. "Think I'm going to lose the bet."

The payoff to his friend may be allayed by the pay day that awaits come July, when Bozak becomes an unrestricted free agent.

He's due for a raise from the $1.4 million he earned last season.

"My agent will deal with that stuff," Bozak said. "I would like to stay here. This is a place I like playing."

But if Bozak wants to stay, he might have to take the so-called hometown discount.

"If there is a contract that makes sense for us and makes sense for Tyler, we'll sign him," said GM Dave Nonis.

Blue Jays bats come alive just in time for rumble in the Bronx

'This team was built to score runs.' More batters loading bases as Toronto speeds to playoff pace

Though it sputtered to start the season, the Blue Jays offence is surging as they head to New York City riding a four-game winning streak.

Since being shut out by the Boston Red Sox a week ago, the Jays have averaged nine runs and more than 12 hits per game. Since pummelling Seattle 10-2 on May 5, the offensive numbers are still strong, averaging almost seven runs per game.

The result has been a 7-3 record over their last 10, which is pretty much how the Jays must perform over the remaining three-quarters of the season if they have any hope of playing in October.

The good news is that when the Jays are scoring like they are right now, they usually win. They're 13-0 when putting five or more on the board, compared to 4-24 when they score four or fewer. Their pitching and defence simply have not been good enough to carry them in low-scoring games.

"This team was built to score runs," manager John Gibbons repeated often during the club's sluggish start to the season. "And I believe we will."

But there were signs of a pending turnaround beyond Gibbons' optimism.

The club's league-worst .262 batting average on balls in play (BABIP) — a statistic that measures how many balls put into play, minus home runs, land for hits — in late April suggested they were somewhat unlucky in the first month of the season. Their BABIP so far this month is .302.

World championship

Quarter-final déjà vu for Canada

Canada was eliminated in the quarter-finals of the IIHF World Championship for a fourth straight year with a 3-2 shootout loss to host Sweden on Thursday.

Fredrik Pettersson scored the winner in the fourth round of the shootout as Sweden moved on to a semifinal meeting with archrival Finland.

Trailing 1-0, Nicklas Danielsson scored a pair of power-play goals in the third period to give the hosts a 2-1 lead. Canada's Claude Giroux tied the game just over a minute after Danielsson's second goal.

Steven Stamkos scored a second-period power-play goal.

Mike Smith stopped 30 shots in the loss, while Jhonas Enroth made 39 saves for the win.

Canada last advanced to the semifinals in 2009 en route to a silver medal.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

This has been a busy week for you, so maybe you need to slow down a bit. Right. And maybe the Sun will rise in the west and the tide won't come in. Aries never slows down — it's not in your nature.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Mars in your sign gives you all the energy and ambition you need to make a name for yourself, so go for it. Too often in the past you have waited for other people to take the lead.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

The thing you need to realize is that you don't have to enjoy something to be good at it. If fate points you in a certain direction today then that is the direction you should move.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Listen to what others say you should do today — then do the opposite. You know your mind better than they do so follow what your instincts tell you.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Today, you will be confronted by someone who has more power than you but that must not be allowed to faze you. They may have might on their side but you have right and that's why you will win in the end.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You may have strong opinions about an issue but don't waste your time shouting about it. Find ways you can make a practical difference, then get on with them quietly. It's not about words, it's about actions.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Having told so many people what you intend to accomplish don't you think it's about time you started actually doing it? Anyone can talk about making a difference but only a few people ever get round to it.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Mars in your opposite sign of Taurus will help you get rid of an emotional attachment you no longer need. Scorpio has a reputation for ruthlessness and today everyone will see it.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You may be tempted to work twice as hard at something to make sure you get it done on time but it is necessary to put in so much effort and maybe exhaust yourself? No. Ease up.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Be careful what you start over the next 24 hours because you will have no choice but to finish it before you can move on to something else. Think before you act and don't let your passions rule you.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Chances are you will find yourself involved in some kind of dispute with your nearest and dearest. Whatever else happens, you must resist the urge to open up old wounds.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Someone else's good idea can be adapted by you to suit your own needs. Is that immoral? Of course not. There is no copyright on ideas, so you are free to take it and develop it any way you see fit. SALLY BROMPTON

Retail customers resident in Canada who own or are currently leasing (during the Program Period) a Chevrolet Equinox, Tracker or Saturn Vue will receive a $1,000 credit towards the purchase, lease or factory order of an eligible new 2013 Chevrolet Equinox. Only one (1) credit may be applied per eligible vehicle sale. Offer is transferable to a family member living in the same household (proof of address required). This offer may not be redeemed for cash and may not be combined with certain other consumer incentives available on GM vehicles. The $1,000 credit includes HST/GST/PTST as applicable by province. As part of the transaction, dealer will request current vehicle registration and/or insurance to prove ownership. GMCL reserves the right to amend or terminate this offer, in whole or in part, at any time without prior notice. Void where prohibited by law. Additional conditions and limitations apply. See your GM dealer for details.
